

A New Class of Materials with High Potential of Engineering Applications: Metallic Glasses

Prof.dr.eng. Viorel-Aurel Serban

Abstract

A brief overview of metallic glasses, these “materials of the future”, is presented in terms of structure, compositional classes, types, methods of preparation, properties, our results, possible fields of applications and problems existing in study and use of these new materials.